Students who register for the Production Practicum (DRAM 2669, 3669, or 4669) are required to work the equivalent of 60 hours during the academic year (September to April) on production crews for the Drama Studies Program theatre season in the Motyer-Fancy Theatre. You are responsible for maintaining this production crew log-book, detailing your crew hours and making sure each crew is signed off on by the faculty or staff crew chief responsible for each working session. Submit this sheet along with the other written components at the completion of the required hours. Production crew calls will be posted regularly throughout the year on the callboard at the theatre, emailed to you, and distributed in the weekly newsletter. Students fulfilling their Practicum hours will sign up for and attend the appropriate crews. You can fulfill the required hours by working on a variety of different crews (lighting, set construction, front-of-house) for different shows or by fulfilling a major commitment (eg. stage management) for a particular production. Do not lose this logbook, as no one else has record of your practical hours.
